McDonald Lawson Carter offered a reduced yarding 1,450 head, down from 1,681 head in the previous sale. The market showed a noticeable improvement in overall competition, particularly through feeder and processor categories, with most regular buyers operating in a stronger market.

Prime vealers showed improved quality and met stronger demand compared to the previous sale. Vealer steers topped at 495.0c/kg, up from 472.2c/kg previously, while better finished supplementary-fed lines attracted strong competition. Vealer heifers also improved overall, particularly the well-bred and well-finished drafts, although secondary types remained harder to place.

Yearling cattle showed a significant improvement in both quality and competition compared to the previous yarding. Yearling steers topped at 546.2c/kg, up substantially on the previous sale's 505.0c/kg, with averages lifting strongly across most feeder categories. Angus yearling steers averaged 499.2c/kg compared to 439.7c/kg previously, indicating a lift of nearly 60c/kg. Feeder demand was noticeably stronger this sale, particularly for well-bred Angus cattle suited to feedlot orders. Yearling heifers also improved, with stronger competition across medium and heavy feeder weights.

Cow numbers were lower overall, however quality improved significantly on the previous sale. Heavy cows sold in a dearer market, with the best cows reaching 378.2c/kg and most heavy cows ranging from 300–360c/kg. Angus cows averaged 336.3c/kg, up approximately 72c/kg on the previous sale, reflecting stronger processor demand and improved condition.

Heavy bulls also improved on the previous yarding, with stronger competition. Better quality bulls sold to 390.0c/kg, reversing the softer trend experienced in the earlier sale.

Overall, the market rebounded strongly compared to the previous sale, driven by improved buyer competition. The strongest gains were seen in yearling feeder cattle and heavy cows, with many categories improving 30–70c/kg, while vealers also showed solid gains across the better finished lines.
